ADR Experience

Chancellor Alissandratos began mediating civil cases over 28 years ago. His Judicial career began as a City Court Judge in 1976. He served as a Chancellor on the Chancery Court from 1978 until his retirement in 2006. While on the bench, he successfully mediated hundreds of cases including complex contract, construction, domestic relations and other civil cases. Over 95 percent of these matters were resolved in the pre-trial mediation process with the assistance of Chancellor Alissandratos. He has enhanced his mediation skills with courses at the National Judicial College and through the Tennessee Administrative Office of the Courts.

While thankful and proud to have served as a trial court Judge the Chancellor believes litigation is a somewhat destructive process. He delights in performing mediations which he sees as a totally constructive process.

Chancellor Alissandratos' broad life experiences include being a pilot, a former Law Enforcement Officer, a former Navel Reserve Officer and Competition shooter.

Representative cases include:

- Domestic
- Medical Malpractice
- Employment & Discrimination
- Contract
- Professional Malpractice
- Commercial, Financial, Business
- Construction
- Personal Injury
- Property Damage
